

Exploring The Wilderness

Exploring The Wilderness

Welcome to our Site!

There are many places to explore on our great planet. There are a variety of different climates, landscapes and cultures. This website is designed to give you a snapshot of the different regions of the world. There are also travel tips included. Unfortunately, sometimes problems do arise we have offered a few survival tips as well.

Color Styles

Font Styles

Times	Arial
Cambria	Century Gothic

Exploring The Wilderness

Tropical Climates

The tropics are located near the Equator generally between the 25 degrees north and 25 degrees south latitude. The topics have warm to hot temperatures year round. There are two types of tropical regions, wet and wet and dry. The wet tropical regions are generally hotter and more humid. They also receive more rainfall averaging between 70-100 inches of rain per year. The wet tropical areas are where the jungles are located which have rain year-round. While the tropical wet and dry areas also known as tropical savannahs have wet and dry seasons during the year. Countries with tropical climates include Brazil and Indonesia.

Color Styles

Font Styles

Times Arial

Cambria Century Gothic

